Seen and Heard – Adventures in Art and Dementia brings together six artists who worked creatively in the Belong care village in Chester. Spending time with residents, families, Belong colleagues and children from the on-site Nursery in Belong, they invited people to take part in a range of arts activities. This exhibition, which journeys throughout the ground floor of Grosvenor Museum, includes artworks made by the artists and people from the village community.

Seen and Heard is part of Where the Arts Belong, a groundbreaking partnership between the Bluecoat, Liverpool's contemporary arts centre, and innovative care provider, Belong. We are delighted to share a glimpse into the processes, artists' works and responses created across the project.
